About our Collection

Important Note about tags and descriptions

We are still updating this collection with all the correct tags (this file will change to reflect this when completed). Especially the tags for our rating system (see below), indication of range of ages (junior, middle, senior and teacher for those more professional resources i.e. lesson plans) and the descriptions of each site.

Why have this collection?

To make it easier for learners to find the material they need. They are still getting to use information literacy skills such as searching and scanning, but they are doing this on a defined set of links, hand-selected by educationalists. Links have a rating system and age indications to suggest to them the best places to start. Teachers can easily check out links that are more interactive, for use as group activities with computers or interactive whiteboards (IWB).

What are tags?

Tags are one-word descriptors that we assign to our bookmarks on Delicious to help you find them. Tags are a little bit like keywords, but you choose them yourself and they do not form a hierarchy. We assign as many tags to a bookmark to help you find the best sites in a variety of ways.

Fuller Explanation of tags

"junior, middle, senior" indicates the age range for reading or interacting with material. A site can be labeled with all three tags

"Teacher" This tag indicates a site more for teacher only use. Especially, if combined with "pedagogy"

Ratings

Blank or * Either not rated yet or rated to say it is worth making into the collection as it is well designed and authoritative.

 Well it made it into the 5000+ hand screened links collection. So it has merit. Design is attractive. Possibly less interactive in nature

 Some level of interactivity, well designed, authoritative

* High level of interactivity. Depth of activities. Excellent Quality. Excellent Design. Might be focused on one specific area. Lack of intrusive or inappropriate advertising.

 Very few sites get this. High level of interactivity. Depth of activities across a range of ages or curriculum areas. Excellent Quality. Excellent Design. Might be focused on one specific area. Lack of intrusive or inappropriate advertising. Authoritative.

How is this collection maintained?

Warren Grieve is a current ICT Facilitator @ Medbury Boys

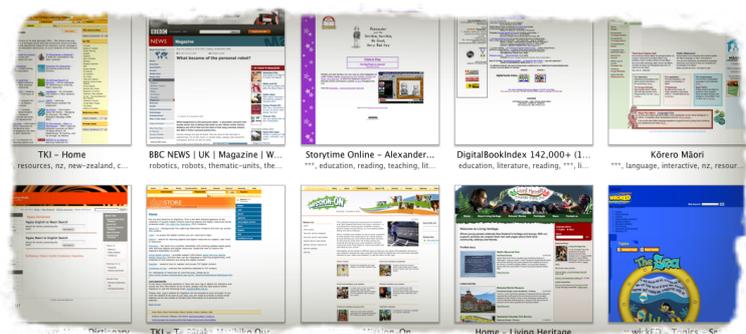

School in N.Z. The collection is added to by staff throughout this school as they use it for both their own professional life and to pass on collections (via using tags) to the pupils to help scaffold their learning.
